

The Robinette Company

Choosing the Greener Path

The Robinette Company, based in Bristol, TN, made a commitment to use environmentally responsible processes for production.

This goal brought them down a greener path and to leading-edge capabilities. Today, the company is one of the few that prints water-based inks on film and uses solvent-free adhesives for lamination.

“High performance equipment is a must for these applications. At Robinette, we’ve worked for years with W&H machinery and knew we could expect not only the best equipment performance, but also exceptional customer service,” said President, George Thomas.

The Robinette Company operates one MIRAFLEX and two NOVOFLEX presses.

At W&H, we are proud to be partnered with the Robinette Company.
